

GACE Program Admissions Assessment Limited Flexibility Option Guide

All students meeting the requirements for the flexibility option may apply; however, the GaPSC limits this option to only 5% of the current cohort. Thus, all applications will be reviewed by the Teacher Education Leadership Team twice each semester. Students will be notified of the team’s decision within one of week of the review. In order to apply for this option, the academic advisor will fill out the GACE Program Admissions Assessment Limited Flexibility Option Form and the Piedmont Professional Dispositions Form. Remediation work must be documented. The form requires a written recommendation from the advisor. If the student has requested the flex option, but the advisor finds the student’s work or dispositions to be unsatisfactory, then the advisor may select to write in “not recommended.” The application will still be turned into the team, but it will not be considered for review. Students who are not granted this exempt may appeal to the Director of Teacher Education or the Dean of the School of Education; however, these appeals will not be reconsidered until the following semester.
